Bruges is a storybook canal town near the Belgian coast that offers the perfect setting for any traveler.

Anyone can be at home here -- the hopeless romantic, the whimsical storyteller, the backpack adventurer, the beer-guzzling college kid, or the affluent with a seasoned palate. It's because this place has everything one would hope for in creating a city - the most adorable, architecturally beautiful buildings, friendly locals that speak English better than most Americans, and the best beer in Belgium, arguably the world. To quote Ralph Fiennes from the film ' In Bruges
